AFTERWORD

Thank you very much for accompanying me to the end!! When "Ouji to Hero" was being serialized, it was really fun, but making the volumes was really fun too. When I was drawing and sending the cover illustrations, each time the designer made them so wonderful, I nearly thought "did they use magic?!", and so, even though it's my own book, I think of it as my treasure.

When the series that I started to draw in 2007, "Innocent World", has become a volume, my supervisor changed, and when I was finishing drawing the last chapter, my supervisor changed again. And because I drew the character called Azuma, Prince was born. For me, it was a turning point and a work that I had a very close relation with. I think that the fact I could put it in this book is a real conclusion.

"Ouji to Hero" became the work that received the most feedback from readers until now. It felt that I was drawing this series every month together with my dear readers, and it was very fun. I am here now thanks to everyone who read it. I will do my best from now on too, so I would be very happy if you could accompany me with my next work too. Thank you very much for reading until the end!!

SPECIAL THANKS
